Working with the Scriptures (1 Cor. 12:3b-7, 12-13)

...[T]here are different forms of service but the same Lord...different workings but the same God..."

I had been invited to speak to a group of healthcare workers about their work. Not being in the healthcare profession myself, before I began telling them about their work I invited them to tell me about it - what made them decide to do the work they do; why they continue working in their profession despite increasing government control and insurance company oversight. I spent hours researching and preparing my presentation. Yet in every single evaluation the thing that received the highest marks wasn't anything that I had said. What each participant appreciated most was having the opportunity to tell their stories.

Each story was different. A few had always wanted to work in healthcare, usually because they had a friend or family member in the profession. Others had never even considered healthcare until a teacher or other mentor saw their potential and encouraged them to think about it. And two had been working elsewhere and changed direction as a result of having experienced personal medical emergencies.

Each did different work. Among them was a cardiac ultrasound technician; a speech therapist specializing in the care of children; an occupational therapist specializing in geriatric and Alzheimer patient care; an X-Ray technician. Although they worked together the participants quickly realized that they actually didn't know one another very well at all. No one had ever invited them to take the time to tell their stories, to see how their varied stories fit together into the story. Each offered a different form of service but felt called by the same Lord. Each came from a different religious background but served the same God. Each was a person of deep faith but had never been invited to reflect on the spiritual gifts they brought to their work.

Each one of us has a story. "To each individual the manifestation of the Spirit is given for some benefit." How and for what benefit is the Spirit made manifest in you? How does your story fit into the story?

Religious Education

St. Mary Parish, St. Joseph Parish, and Inter-Parish Religious Formation are grateful to Sue Dernbach for her many years of service to the Church. Sue will retire from professional ministry this Thursday, May 27. She coordinated the kindergarten through 4th grade religious education program for the past 10 years, and worked with First Eucharist candidates from both parishes. Prior to serving in our program, she was a coordinator at St. Bernard parish, and a Kindergarten teacher in the Appleton Public Schools. We will miss her, but wish her well in her retirement.

St. Mary and St. Joseph Parishes welcome Jonathan Elmer as primary grade coordinator. Mr. Elmer will coordinate grades K-4 religious education, and will help with First Eucharist preparation. Prior to accepting the position at St. Mary and St. Joseph, Jonathan was a coordinator of religious education and youth minister at Holy Cross Parish, and a middle school religion teacher at Holy Spirit School. Jonathan holds a MA in community counseling and a BA in religious studies.

Belanno Language Camps for Aug. 2-13

Imagine if everyone in the world could communicate and truly understand one another, and appreciate each other's differences as much as the things we all have in common. Imagining a world like this is exactly what Belanno is all about. Our mission is to provide high-quality language and cultural programs for children.

For two weeks this August, we welcome children in grades K through 5 to explore the languages and cultures of Africa, Middle East and India. Students may pick one language/culture to focus on for two weeks - Arabic, Hindi or Swahili.

All children are welcome regardless of their level of experience with the language. No prior language experience is needed. Camps will be held at the Boys' and Girls' Brigade in Neenah. Cost of each camp is $100, plus a $50 deposit that will be returned if the student attends all sessions. Time, 8:30AM-12 noon, Monday through Friday. Call 920-843-2214, www.belanno.com.
